How to Make Wheat.

We find the following article written by a Maryland wheat grower, published in the American Farmer, and present it to our farmers with the hope that some good may result from its perusal, either by adopting his suggestions or introducing such other improvement as may occur to each individual mind. This writer pays no regard to the use of peavines as a fertilizer for wheat, and in this we must regard his practice as defective. at least for this section of the country. We believe that a heavy coat of peavines plowed in with 100 pounds of scid phosphate to the acre will make good wheat on our clay lands. But if we have no peavines ready for use, then take 100 pounds of phosphate, 200 pounds cotton seed, 100 pounds stable manure and 50 pounds German Kainite, carefully compost and regularly distribute over each acre, and a good crop of wheat may be expected from any kind of land. The vegetable matter in this compost will make strong straw and hasten maturity, and the phosphate will make plump, heavy grain. Farmers submit to great loss by using raw cotton seed. Manures cannot make ground rich by mixing them with the soil. They must be incorporated with it chemically so as to be absorbed by the plant roots. There is a great variety of opinion among our. farmers about the proper time for sowing wheat. Some sow whenever they can, from October to Christmas, and some few run their sowing over to January. A good farmer of Town Creek sowed the 15th of December and made 40 bushels to the acre, and then pronounced that date early enough to sow wheat. So it is in some places and under favorable circumstances. That brother had the benefit of the exception; his land was well manured and thoroughly prepared, and he completed his sowing on that day. Either early or late sowing is objectionable, and for that reason our farmers should fix on some intermediate time. The 15th of November is late enough to Ten, twenty, thirty and forty bushels of wheat may be and have often been made on one acre of ground. Why is it that one farmer makes only five bushels of wheat on an acre, while another farmer makes forty? The one has brains and uses them—the other depends on "the mercy of chance."

avoid injury by the fly, and early enough to bring in the crop before the rust damages it badly in the Spring. Maryland farmers sow from the 15th of Sep-

14 bushels to the acre:

Benjamin Fitzhugh, of Frederick city, says that the Lawson Brothers, living near Urbana, in Montgomery county, made two years ago fifty-two bushels of wheat per acre on eight-dollar land. Mr. Philip Ritz, living near Walla-Walla, Washington Territory, informed me that one of his neighbors claims to have made one hundred bushels of prime wheat on an acre. Senator Morton went to see this man and obtained a sample of his wheat. Forty to sixty bushels is often made in Oregon.

But the farmer who expects to make twenty or thirty or forty bushels on an acre of poor land, badly farmed, will be torribly disappointed. To make a conditional property of the conditions of the condition terribly disappointed. To make a good crop of wheat, we must have good land, in good order, sown at the proper time, in the proper way, and properly harvested. We mix barn-yard or hog-yard manure, or other fertilizers, to make the wheat-plant grow. On poor land the stalk is too small, too light. If the growth is too luxuriant the wheat may lodge, which hinders the growth and development of the grain. But when on good land a small quantity of manure acts finely on a wheat crop, which matures early on manured land.

"When there is no phosphoric acid in the soil, wheat will not grow," says Liebig. There is twenty-six pounds of phosphoric acid in twenty-five bushels of wheat. If the phosphoric acid of a soil has been exhausted by repeated crops, or if that quantity of soluble phosphoric acid cannot be furnished by the soil, twenty-five bushels of wheat cannot be made on that acre. Phosphoric acid is made on that acre. Phosphoric acid is furnished most certainly by bones of ani-mals. It is claimed that it is present in the South Carolina rock also. Our experience is that those who use phosphates make wheat—those that do not use phosphates make little or no wheat.

If we had some means of strengthening the wheat stalk, so that the wheat would stand up, the heads would fill better, the grains would be plumper and more per-fect. Liebig says that "soluble silicate of potash imparts strength to the growing crop." It is claimed that soluble silicate of potash exists in the marl of Calvert county, in Maryland, and in some marl from New Jersey.

If the farmer wants to make twenty thirty or forty bushels of wheat to the acre, he must have rich land. Land is made rich by barn-yard or hog-yard ma-nure, or by clover. Lime will increase the crop of wheat and of all cereals and grass crops likewise, on all soils, rich and poor. I think land cannot be made rich

The elements of fertility may be in a soil in an insoluble condition; therefore, the soil will be unproductive. The productiveness of a soil is in proportion to the solubility of its fertilizing materials. Liebig says: "Steel wire immersed in nitric acid is not oxidized; steel wire immersed in sulphuric acid is not oxidized; but steel wire immersed in equal parts of nitrie and sulphuric acid is rapidly oxidized." The two acids combined have a power which singly they do not possess. Lime, applied to a soil, may decompose one ingredient, and this decomposition one ingredient, and this decomposition may liberate a number of chemical agents, which will give energy to the growth and development of all plants.

"A little leaven leaveneth the whole

To make forty or fifty bushels of wheat per acre, the farmer must have rich land, or brains enough to make poor land rich. Wheat ripens earlier on manured land; but too much manure may be injurious, by causing a too luxuriant growth.

But when we have a sufficient growth of stalk we need soluble phosphoric acid to fill the head with nice, plump grains.

The surest, cheapest, most reliable mode instant felief to the little of securing phosphoric acid to a soil is by sale at all Drug Stores.

the use of finely-ground bones—bones dissolved in sulphuric acid. The value of all fertilizers is in proportion to their solubility. The heat of the atmosphere and the moisture will dissolve the raw bone in time for a crop. If there is thirty-seven per cent, of phosphoric acid in one hundred pounds of bones in a soluble condition, one hundred pounds of ones on an acre, regularly distributed, would be more than enough to make twenty-five bushels of wheat. If six hundred pounds per acre were used, and only twenty-five bushels of wheat were made, the residue of the phosphoric acid in the soil would be so much dead cap-and fifty pounds of Slingluff's dissolved bones, a bushel of plaster and a bushel of salt to an acre, drilled in with the wheat. Mr. Geo. W. Harris, near Hawheat. Mr. Geo. W. solved bone to the acre.

Our farmers, this year, who used phosphates, made good crops of wheat. Those who used no phosphates made none.

When Dr. Higgins, our State chemist, when Dr. Higgins, our State chemist, said, twenty-five years ago, that our land was in need of phosphates, many of our farmers wondered whether he knew anything about it. Now all our farmers think we ought to use phosphates, and phosphates are generally used. Whether it would be better to use unmixed raw home or bore discalard in suphlypric acid. bone, or bone dissolved in sulphuric acid, dried and ground over; or bones, raw or dissolved, mixed with Peruvian guano are problems to be solved by our agricul-tural people. One thing is certain: our English cousins found out fifty years ago that if they wanted to double their crops of wheat and turnips they must use bones freely, THOMAS MADDOX.

Buried Alive in a Well.

Last Friday, at noon, says the Neils-ville (Wis.) Republican, a well being dug at the Fair grounds caved in at the bot-tom after it had reached a depth of 116 feet, burying Wm. Selves, a workman, under about thirteen feet of sand, measuring from his head, while he was in nearly an upright position. The well had reached a depth of one hundred feet, when a stratum of loose white sand was reached, which made curbing necessary An upright curbing in sections four fet long was used. While putting in the fourth section the caving in of the well took place, first crushing in the lower section, which was not finished, and pin-ning Selves in solid sand nearly to his armpits. It was instantly followed by the three sections above, which were crushed in the centre. On seeing it start, Selves had instantly raised a sec-tion of the curbing over his head, bend-ing backward, face up, with the arm supporting the piece of curbing stretched above his head. In this position the sand settled about him, completely bind-ing him except his head and one arm, which he could move at that time. The section of curbing which he had raised above his head created a vacuum, which for a short time communicated with the vacuum through the centre of the well made by the coming together of the bar-rel-like curbing. As soon as possible a gas pipe for the purpose of pumping air to him was inserted through the opening. Selves, who then had one hand at liberty, placed it as near his mouth as the boards over him would permit. Soon after this was accomplished, the sand settled solidland farmers sow from the 15th of Sep-tember to the 15th of October, from 1 to under the board, which soon filled so close as to imprison the arm that had close as to imprison the arm that had been at liberty, and also to render his head immovable.

In this situation, plainly depicted by himself in sepulchral tones, through the air tube, and perfectly audible at the top of the well, William Selves, then six hours without food, and cramped and chilled by the cold sand, said he would hold on to life if there were brave hearts enough above him to undertake his re-night and day, never slacking except for a short time on Saturday morning, when for a time further attempts seemed suicidal by reason of the caving in of a small portion of the clay wall. But soon new precautions were devised, and the almost hopeless work went on to its practical conclusion at 1 o'clock this (Sun day) morning, when a friendly hand raised the plank and brushed the sand from the now nearly unconscious face. He had retained his mind perfectly up to a few minutes before, when the ten-derly, cautious hands above him, in spite of their care, had so disturbed the sand as to cover his face, and interrupt the

He returned to perfect consciousness in a few moments, and, his head released, the work went rapidly on, he himself helping materially after his arms were released. At 3.30 o'clock, nearly forty hours after his incarceration, William Selves stepped firmly from the mouth of his living grave and was received in the arms of his young wife amid glad shouts of the throng who had so long shared his suspense. His exertions in assisting to free himself had given him the use of his limbs again, and when he reached the surface about all he seemed to need was nourishment, which he had not had since the Friday morning before, nearly two

The task was to remove from 13 to 18 feet of sund from the bottom of a well 116 feet deep, by putting in new curbing while taking out the sand and debris of the old curbing, and to do it all so carefully as not to fill the little vacuum above his face. Coupled with this task was the appalling danger to the workmen of a fresh caving of the well, now more imminent than the first, for above the ominous vacuum made by the caving of the sand, hung the hundred feet of clay wall with no support but its own adhesion, its natural foundation of sand being gone. The bore through the clay being but twenty-seven inches in diameter, could not, for lack of both time and space, be curbed.

In the face of these discouragements were brave hearts enough found to work night and day, never slacking except for the sand day, never slacking except for a first first first

WEST POINT, GA., Sept. 16, 1870.
GENTS—My daughter was taken on the 25th day of June, 1863, with what was supposed to be Acute Iheumatism, and was treated for the same with no success. In March, following, pieces of bone began to work out of the right arm, and continued to appear till all the bone from the elbow to the shoulder joint came out. Many pieces of bone came out of the right foot and leg. The case was then pronounced one of White Swelling. After having been confined about six years to her bed, and the case considered hopeless, I was induced to try Dr. Pemberton's Compound Extract of Stillingia, and was so well satisfied with its effects that I have continued the use of it until the present.
